TEATRO PARAÍSO - THEATRE DE LA GUIMBARDE

BABIES AND THEATRE

Children discover the world and Art with their body, their heart and their feelings. They are researchers by nature and face artistic experiences without any barriers. They sense the Theatre with the intensity “of a first time”.

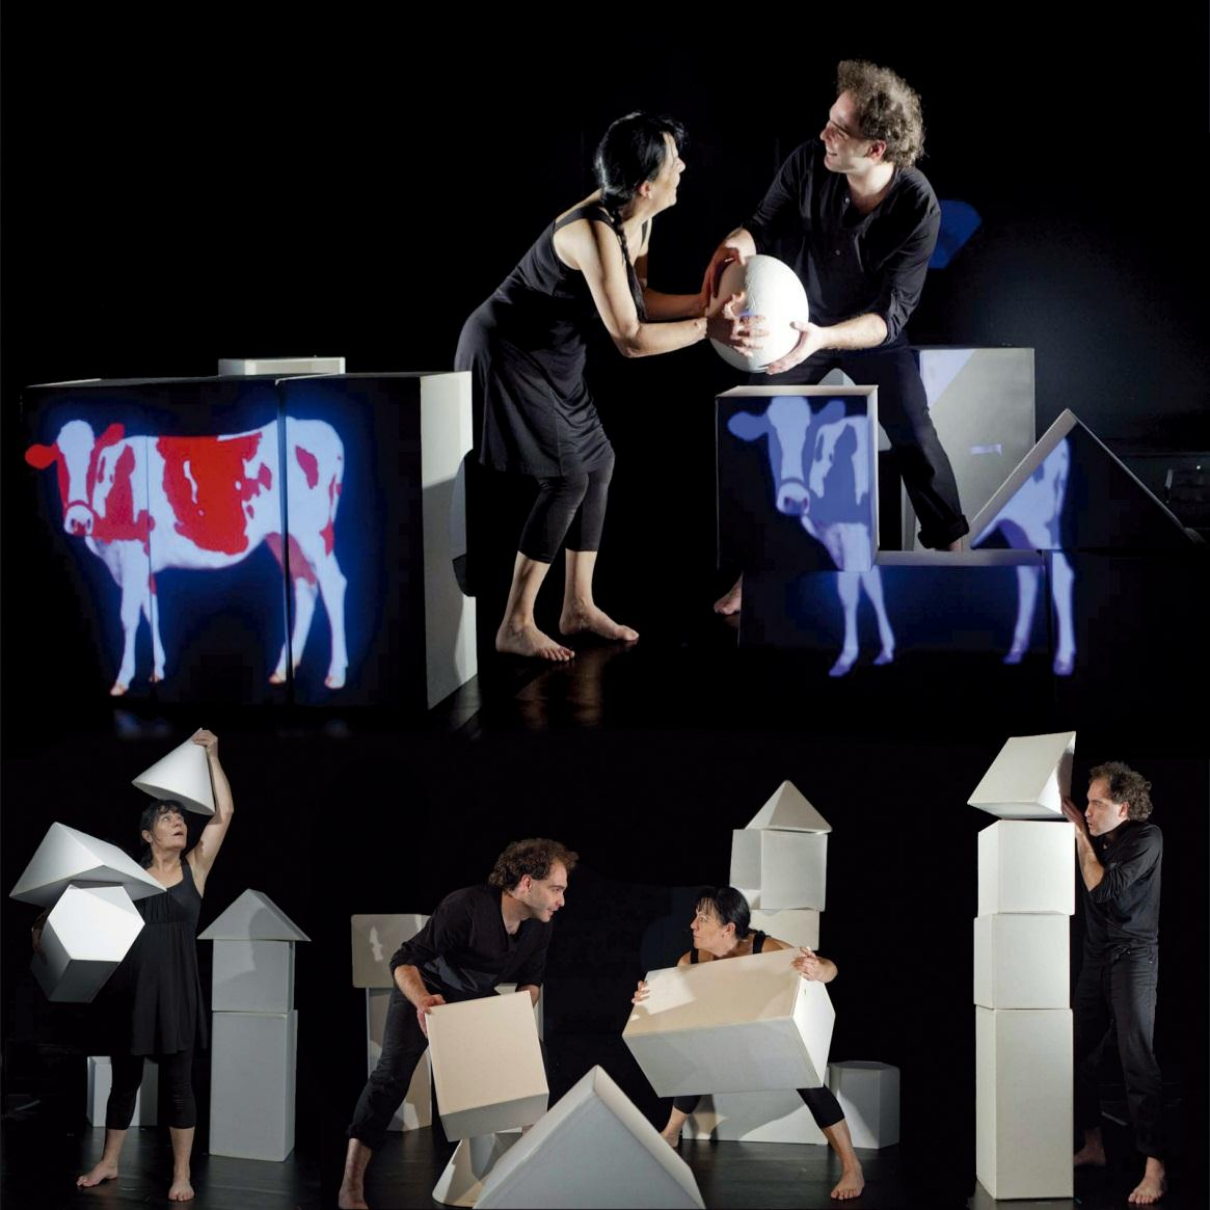

They are a real audience, they are the perfect audience! Although they watch the play in a different way compared to us, the adults. They are intensely focused on the essence of the proposal that is offered to them and they never tire of following the path of their curiosity.

But at the same time, they are fragile spectators who need nearness and intimacy. They need to feel calm in the theatrical space in which they find themselves in and sense the truthfulness of the actors, so as to immerse themselves pleasantly in the poetic universe of the play they are watching.

“Kubik” follows up on the “Theatre, Images and Early Childhood” creative project that Teatro Paraíso has developed in recent years and which is being researched by the University of the Basque Country. “In the Garden” and “Kri kra kro” are part of this project and are performances of the European Project Small Size Big Citizens.

Through our work we want to contribute to opening them up to life and Art, sharing with them what we like most: The Theatre and the Images.

KUBIK

The show is inspired by kids' games that experiment physically with their environment to try and understand it. By manipulating the objects within their reach, they construct ideas thereby opening the door to their imagination.

At "Kubik", two theatre actors handle a great building game which is stacked and transformed, that can be moved and creates new spaces that can be explored. It is a structure that is in constant movement and the volumes and shapes create little screens where images appear:

The actors discover together the joy of creating and looking (houses, trains, a forest, the sea...) and the young spectators are immersed in a sensory universe in which imagining, discovering and dreaming is possible.

At "Kubik" everything changes, everything transforms. One world gives way to another
