The world is a large terrain for discovery. In this pursuit, two curious nomadic women travel with a desire to explore new lands in search of new experiences. During their voyage around the world, Saka and Tamán come to a strange site, disorganized and chaotic, full of surprises. In this place, they find an enormous egg which they lovingly look after.

By playing, handling and experimenting, the stage becomes a place where Architecture, Geometry and Mathematics are naturally born. Lines, angles and plans become a tepee, a wall, and a waterfall through the poetic transformation of materials. Meanwhile, life beats within a strange egg.

Finally, the curiosity of these nomadic women motivates them to continue their journey, leaving behind their footprints, which only another human being will be able to recognise.
